20:24angry concerning the] two brothers. 25The how[ever] Yahushua, after summoning them, said, "You all recognise that] the rulers of the nat[ions] lord over them, and the great ones ex]ercise authori[ty over] the[m]. 26Not thusly shall it exist among you all, but whoever may desire among yo]u all great to b[e]co[m]e, shall exist of you all a servant. 27And whomever may desire among you a]ll to exis[t] as first, shall exist of you all a slave, 28like the Son of Man not cam]e to be se[r]ved, [notwithstanding so He may serve, and to grant the soul His a ra]nsom for numerous." 29A[nd as travelling out them from Yerikho, were foll]owing after crowds nume[r]ous. 30Then behold! Two blind ones sitting down beside th]e road, attending to [that Yahushua was going by, cried out, saying, "Have mercy on u]s, Master! Son of David!" 31The however cr[owd rebuked them, so that they may be silent. They but mo]re were crying out, [saying, "Have mercy on us, Master! Son of David!" 32So stopping, the Yah]ushua c[all]ie[d] them, and He said, "What do you both desire

21:13tten, 'The house My a house] of prayer sha[ll] be addressed.' You all however it have turned into a hideout of ro]bbers!" 14Then th[ey brought to him blind and lame in the Temple, and] He healed [them. 15Having seen now the chief priests and the scribes th]e wonders which He was acco[m]plishing, and the children, those crying out in th]e Temple, and sayin[g] 'Hosanna to the Son of David!', they were vexed.] 16So they said to Him, "D[o You attend to what these are saying?!" The then Yahushua said to the]m, "Yup! Have never you all r[ead that 'Out of a mouth of infants and those being nu]rsed You have prepared pr[aise?' " 17So after leaving them, He went outside of the] city into Baiyth-'An[iy, and stayed the night there. 18]In the morning now, when returni]ng to the city, He w[as] hungry. 19So having seen fig tree single by the ro]ad, He came upon i[t]. But nothing He discovered on it, except leaves onl]y. Then He said to i[t], "Not longer out of you fruit

Achievement] for good she has performed for Me. 11 Always for the poor or you all will acquire with yourselves; Me however not always you all will acquire. 12 When poured for woman the perfume oil upon the body My, it was for to prepare for burial Me she accomplished this. 13 Certainly I say to you all, wherever may be announced the good news this in the whole world, shall be spoken also what accomplished she to be a memorial for her." 14 Then traveled one of the Twelve, the one called Yahuwdah of Qariyowth, to the chief priests. 15 He said, "What do you all desire to Me to grant, and I to you all shall hand over him?" They so agreed with him thirty silver pieces. 16 From hence, he was seeking after an opportunity in order that Him he may hand over. 17 On the first of the unleavened, approached the adherents to Yahu[shua], saying, "Where do you desire us to make ready for you to consume the [Passover?]" 18 He so said, "Go off into the city to the certain one, and [say to him, 'The teacher says, 'The time My near exists.]

 stern upon a pill]ow, slee[ping]. So they raised Him and said to Him, "Te]acher! Not [does it matter to You that we are being destroyed?!" 39 But having got up, He re]buked [the wind, and said to the sea, "Quiet! Silence!" Ab]ated the w[i]n[d], and came to be a calm great. 40 Then He said t[o] them, "Why th[usly] cowardly do you all exist? Not yet do you all acquire trust?
 41 And they feared a terro]r great, [and were saying to one another, "Whom then This One exists? Because even the wind] an[d] the sea obey Him!" 5:1 So they came to the other side of the s]ea, to the region of Girgas-

Men two conversi[ng] with Him, wh[o]m were Moshe and 'EliYahu, 31 they appeared in splendour, [spe]aking of the departure His, which He was about to fulfill within Yaruwsha[laiym. 32 The now Petros and those with him were extremely sleepy, after being full[y] ro-used however, they saw the splendour His and the two men, those [standing to]gether with Him. 33 And it hap[p]ene[d du]ring the separating them from [H]im, said the Petros to Yahushua, "Teacher! Good it exists for us her[e to e]xist! Let us make monuments three, one for You and one for Moshe an[d] one for 'EliYahu!" Not knowing what he said. 34 These now he after saying, came t[o] be a clo[u]d, and overshadowed them. They were terrified however whi[le t]hey entered into the cloud. 35 And a voice came t[o] be out of the cloud, "This exists the Son My the selected. [H]im you all must attend to." 36 And it happened whilst to become the voice, [they discovered] Yahushua alone. And they kept quiet, and to no one they proclaimed in t[h]ose the days that he had seen.^a 37 Became now the day [des]cended they from the mountain, enco[unt]ered H[i]m a crowd lar[ge]. 38 And be[ho]ld! A ma[n] from the crowd bellowed, [saying "T]eacher! I b[e]g You to look wi[th c]oncern upon the s[on my, because only o]ne mine he e[xists! 39 And behold! A spirit accepts him [and suddenly he screams, and it convulses him with foam, and rar[ely withdrawns from him, sevearly beating him. 40 So I begged t[he adherents Your in order that they may expel it, but not were they capa[ble!]" 41 Answering so, the Yahushua said, "O gene]ration disloyal and co[r]rupted! Until when shall I exist with you all] and put u[p with you all?! Bring here the son your!

^a In a rare misspelling occurrence, seems the scribe may've slightly skipped back when copying (or read it out, pronouncing α and ε similarly) to produce a mismatch of verb with subject (singular verb with plural subject). Emendation gives the correct spelling, meaning they had seen.

^a Why the scribe made this error isn't able to be answered. There are no other extant places where $\epsilon\rho\iota\chi\omega$ occurs to see whether the scribe only does this here, or everywhere. Should say Yariykhuv.

^b It seems the scribe may've skipped on a few words to after the next $\alpha\upsilon\tau\omicron\nu$, wrote $\epsilon\iota\varsigma$ but then noticed the mistake, and continued to write out the rest of the sentence properly. Why it wasn't corrected is unable to be answered (though there are several other places where corrections are unnoted). Should say upon.

^a Even though not the Koine-Greek spelling, the reading of P45 is at least the Epic Greek form of the aorist infinitive. Meaning of both is the same.

^b The manuscript reading is nonsensical. Likely influenced by the following εὐ δ. Should say ἴφ.

^a 345 omits 12:9, probably due to homoeoteleuton (both v8 and v9 end with των αγγων του ΘΥ). This omission is also evidenced in a few Latin manuscripts, the Syrus Sinaiticus (Syrac) and a Bohairic manuscript (Coptic).

^a In strict Greek-grammar, neuter subjects in the plural take a Greek verb in the singular, and not the plural. The original reading has the verb in the plural agreeing with the neuter plural, with the correction conforming the text to strict Greek-grammar, giving the singular form of the verb γινωσκω. Either reading gives the same meaning.

^c Scribe has repeated the sentence
και θεις τα γονατα προσηξατο.
Neither the scribe nor a corrector
has noted the mistake.

Acts 9:35b-10:2a

^a As what the word here was is impossible to know, there can be no translation.

^b Scribe seems to have skipped a few letters due to homoeoteleuton (γονα / γονατα). Though see next note.

^c Seems that the scribe's eye had skipped back to the previous και, hence the repetition. This time however he's got the proper spelling of γονατα. The first instance should've had some sort of marking to indicate its erasure, and the second one left.

^a A corrector changed this to read
[αυτ]ου.

^a The scribe rarely makes errors, so this one is more surprising than the others. αυτων is not pronounced the same as αυτου, and there's nothing close that could explain how the scribe wrote αυτων initially instead of αυτου. Possible influence from Ἰουδαων a bit later on, or των just before? Either way, original reading doesn't make much sense (people were possessed by the slanderer
because God was with them?);
correction gives proper meaning,
Him (= Yahushua).

^a This was changed to γεγονος by writing ω superlinarily above the ο.

^b The scribe has misspelt αναχθεντες.

^a As both letters ο and ω were pronounced similarly in the koine-period, mishaps like these were common. The original reading gives two nominatives as the subject, which is impossible. Correction gives the neuter accusative. No alteration to English translation.
